The Sun's CUSD Meeting Report

By Elizabeth Cowley

The Carmel Unified School District (CUSD) Board of Education held its regular meeting on February 8 at the Carmel Middle School Library.

The CUSD held a Public Hearing on the proposed collective bargaining agreement with the Association of Carmel Teachers. The agreement covers July 1, 1995 through June 30, 1996. The total average salary increase will be 4.02% at a cost of $157,521. Statutory benefits including retirement, worker's compensation, unemployment insurance, Social Security and Medicare will increase by 2.70%; there will be no increase in the Health and Welfare Plan which includes health, vision and dental. The agreement also includes a one-time bonus of $300 per full time employee at a total cost of $41,790. No public comments were made on the agreement.

Director Gary Gray voiced his support for Proposition 203 which would raise money for school construction. Director Gray said that California schools are one-third more crowded than the national average and that California schools have the fewest computers per student in the nation. Director Gray added that most California schools are over 30 years old and that construction projects are backlogged by $7 billion. Director Anette Yee Stek added that the last 2 school construction bond proposals have failed in California, the only 2 that have ever failed, and voiced her support of Proposition 203.

Fred Slaughterback and Joe Jaconette reported on the progress of the Business Education Alliance of Monterey (BEAM) program which was designed to introduce students to

A PLACE IN THE SUN

Virginia Parke

"What a wonderful party! The food excellent, the music great and there was space to sit, eat, talk and dance."

These were some of the comments made by those attending the 2nd Annual "Night at the Old Buckeye" Saturday night benefit at the Carmel Valley Library. The evening's event contributed an estimated $5,000 toward the $10,000 goal needed to keep the library open a fifth day each week.

Volunteers Neta Cobb, Doug and Sarah Pease, Connie Gloy, Ann Flood, Kathy and Bob Nelsen greeted attendees at the entrance to a spacious tent filled with an array of superb dishes donated by many Valley business and individuals.

Leo Berta contributed arichokes steamed in herbs, Chuck Woodsen, lamb stew. Some of the desserts enjoyed included mouth watering lemon bars provided by Leslie Voss and an elegant blueberry cobbler by Sarah Pease.

Among the Tularcitos students that contributed to the Valentine's Day theme decorations were 2nd grader Justin Cate Kolb's definition that stated "Valentine's Day is a day for loving, making friends, parties and having lots of fun" and set the tone for the evening's event.

Michael Jones from A Moveable Feast delighted many with his smoked salmon and oyster bar. Baum and Blume's dessert produced many a "Hm". Bob and Marli Melton were observed in the vicinity of the tantalizing dessert table socializing with Sun publisher Norman Spaulding, Jennifer Spaulding and Kay Kirkland.

Mira Patel, 2nd grade student in Mrs. Goldman's class, summed it up with "Valentine's Day is a day for hugs, surprises and big yummy cupcakes".

Monroe, John Zielinski and Steve Moses. Others gathered in the fireplace lounge area to enjoy their food and quiet conversation.

Seated out on the patio, laughter abounded around a table shared by Dallas Shaffer, Katharine Massel, Cecil Andrews, Bill Rawson, Gayle and Archie Schmidt.

Michelle in Mrs. Warren's 3rd grade class, with her definition of "Valentine's Day is a chance to meet friends" expressed many sentiments. Cle and Jancie Allison joined John and Amy Allen around one of the white clothed tables.

At another table Diane Di Maria Stien, Lynn Sakaseawa, Olive Akely and Charolette Lane sat enjoying the gaiety, dancing and great food.

Nan Heflin and Michael McCombs, joined by friends opened the evening's music country western style. Lively appreciation of the performance came from John Macy, Ron and Angie Builta.

Stu Heydon, blues guitarist and vocalist was joined by Danny Abrams on the keyboard, Joe Wedlake on the drums and Pete Rose on the bass performed "rocking good" blues according to Tara Carrafa and Diane Siegman.

Heydon and his Blues Persuaders gave poetic meaning to 3rd grader Joey's Valentine's statement "Valentine's Day reminds me of my Grandpa when he would play his favorite song on his guitar".

Admiring Tularcitos student's Valentine's Day art were Peggy Heneks, Rich Manning, Chra Cayce and Ruth Carter. The display will be at the library until February 17.

Ryan of Mrs. Armstrong's 4th grade class wrote "Valentine's Day reminds me when I was going to be born on that day, but I came early" and serves as a reminder to those who missed this year's benefit to come early next year.

1-30-96 Second Watch. Deputies: Freeman, Clark, Oliver, English, Duval.

* Sometime between 7:40 a.m. and 12:30 p.m., an unknown person took a light green top, with white and blue design bottom, Burton snowboard from the rear of a parked jeep at Carmel High School.

* Manager of a recycling company reported an employee had observed an identified party removing tin cans from residents' recycling baskets along La Rancheria.

1-30-96 Third Watch. Deputies: Freeman, Kanalakakis, Burke, Anderson, Mason, Delasantos.

* Two people had a domestic dispute on Los Helechos Rd.

* A woman on Asoleado Rd. reported two subjects trespassed on her property to cut wood.

* A caller twice telephoned the Carmel Mission Inn, asked for a room, and then told the occupants that someone was charging drinks at the bar to that room and told them to come to the front desk.

* A woman on Flight Rd. reported annoying telephone calls from a known caller which has been an ongoing problem for two years.

1-31-96 Second Watch. Deputies: Calzada, English, Grover, Duval, Oliver.

* A man on Oliver Rd., Carmel, reported that while he was away on 1-30, someone entered his house, apparently through an unlocked door, moved things around and drank one beer.

* A caller from Pacific Meadows reported receiving hang up calls for the past two weeks.

* Victims were hitchhiking at Fernwood Campgrounds, Big Sur and were given a ride by a subject who left with all their belongings.

* A man on Cordona Rd., Carmel, reported carpentry tools stolen from a toolbox in the back of his open pickup over the weekend.

* During an argument on Rancho San Carlos Rd. one party slapped the other 5-6 times in the face.

* A woman on Ocean Ave., reported two unknown males knocking on her back door. A broken down rental car was found in her driveway. The car was towed after the two subjects could not be found.

2-1-96 Second Watch. Deputies: Calzada, Oliver, Grover, Duval.

* A woman on Nason Rd., reported a known person's three horses (one a stallion) on the loose for the past few months. The stallion comes to her fenced area and harasses her two horses every night. It also chases the school children at the bus stop.

* A woman on Paso Hondo Rd., reported being bitten on the leg by a large dog that appeared to be part pit bull. Subjects who owned the dog were in an old blue van.

* A woman on Los Agrimensors, reported having been chased and pulled to the ground by a large boar hog, in her yard on Old Fire Rd. on the east end near Hitchcock Cyn. The hog chased small children and dogs, then chased her and grabbed one of her legs, causing her to fall to the ground on her back. A neighbor smacked the animal on its snout with a broom handle until it let go. It then chased the woman into her house. It was dispatched.

* A woman, staying at La Playa Hotel, Carmel, reported her father was apparently lost at Poppy Hills Golf Course. Last seen at the 10th tee. Subject was located.

Third Watch. Deputies: Meckel, Burke, Kopicki, Gardepie, Delasantos.

* A man on Cabrillo St., Carmel, reported several subjects in a blue or turquoise American vehicle followed him after he pulled in front of them on David Ave. When he reached his destination they yelled at him and said they know where he lives. The plates belong to a 1976 Cadillac out of Marina, registered to a 66 year old female.

* A man requested a welfare check on a woman on Ocean View Ave., Carmel because she told him that her husband was alive again (even though he passed away nearly 30 years ago). She was coherent. Just lonely.

2-2-96 Third Watch. Deputies: Meckel, Shaw, Kopicki, Hagn, Gardepie, Ragan, Warren, Delasantos.

Dr. Jeffrey Froke, president of the Foundation says, "The involvement of teachers and parents is critical to the development of children's passion and life long caring for wild places and wild things."

The Foundation is interested in creative learning opportunities that feature nature study in a broad range of curricular areas including whole language studies, mathematics, science, visual arts and social studies.

One award will be given to a teacher in each of four grade levels: pre-K through kindergarten; first through fifth; sixth through eighth; ninth through twelfth; and to volunteer docents/naturalists.

The deadline for completed applications is April 1, 1996. For more information or an awards application please contact the Rancho San Carlos Education Foundation, 34140 Robinson Canyon Road, Carmel 93923 or call 648-8236.

Carmel Valley antique dealer earns appraisal certificate

Mark A. Enayati of Carmel completed the course in personal property appraisal at Certified Appraisers Guild of America.

Enayati, the owner of Teeleet Antiques in Carmel Valley, received his certification along with men and women appraisers from throughout the United States and Canada.

Subjects covered included the appraisal of antiques, farm, livestock and business properties. The course also included the requirements for valuing estates, bankruptcy, insurance, divorce and providing expert testimony in court.

Water District finishes river cleanup

The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District (MPWMD) announced that it successfully completed its river channel clearing activities prior to the 1995-96 storm season. About 15 miles of river were cleared from the Carmel River Lagoon to near the Stonepine Inn over 17 weeks. The 1995 effort was the sixth year MPWMD has conducted channel clearing activities.

This effort also helps reduce localized flooding caused by water backing up against "mini-dams" created by debris left in the river. The program helps improve fishery and wildlife habitat, reduces safety hazards for river recreation, and improves the visual quality of the river corridor by removing undesirable trash.

District crews disposed of about 200 cubic yards of flood related trash and recycled 310 car and truck tires found along the river.

Coordinator Nikki Nedeft stated that live vegetation on the streambanks is carefully preserved to maintain stable river banks. "Without vegetation to anchor the soil, high river flows can wash the banks away, resulting in loss of property and wildlife habitat that's gone forever," she said.

Carmel's Coniglio endorses Davi

Carmel City Councilman Philip Coniglio has endorsed Jeff Davi in the March 26 race for Fifth District Supervisor. Coniglio said Davi will "provide Monterey County with the new leadership and new vision necessary to tackle the challenging issues".

Memorial Fund established for Kirsten Grimes

The Kirsten Grimes Memorial Trust has been established at First National Bank in Carmel to assist her family with burial and other immediate expenses.

The Sun's publisher, Norman Spaulding, noted, "We thank Carol Jensen Root and other friends for assuming the initiative in recognizing this community need. I hope other members of the greater community will step forward with cash contributions to the Grimes Memorial Trust."

Coroner's view of Grimes death

Kirsten Grimes, 46 years old, was found deceased in the Cachagua Creek about .1 of a mile downstream from the crossing to Jensen Camp off Cachagua Road.

In speaking to witness and family, it was found that Kirsten Grimes was dropped off at a residence near Princess Camp to attend a baby shower. After the shower she went to a nearby bar with friends.

Refusing a ride home, she chose to walk. It is believed she got about 1 1/2 miles from her home and decided to go back to the area of Princess Camp. While crossing Caching Creek at the Jensen Camp crossing, it is believed she was swept off the crossing into the river.

During the entire evening, water was going over the Jensen Camp crossing, sometimes as high as 18". This would make it impossible for anyone to cross safely according to the Coroner's office.

Nothing suspicious was found at the location where she was located.

An autopsy determined the cause of death to be drowning.

Third Watch. Deputies:
Kanalakis, Meckel, Burke, Hagn, Gardepie, Delasantos, Mason.

* A woman on Viscaino reported the theft of several potted plants from a back yard area.

* A man reported the theft of his golf clubs from The Clubhouse at Carmel Valley Rancho Golf Course. Valued at $2205.

* A man found a woman's purse in the forest near Hawkins Wy. which belonged to a woman from Connecticut and appeared to have been in the weather for years.

* A woman reported someone removed her wallet from her purse while she was shopping at Crossroads Safeway at approximately 7 p.m.

2-8-96 Second Watch. Deputies:
Duval, Oliver, Grover.

* A woman on Tassajara Rd., reported the loss in the Valley area of a cashier's check for $500, payable to her, sometime during the past week.

* The Mira Observatory, Chews Ridge, was burglarized. Taken were two computers, a large air compressor, and a large box of miscellaneous hand tools. Estimated loss $11,700.

OBITUARIES

KIRSTEN T. GRIMES

AS THE RIVER RUNS

Norman Spaulding

Do you find it heart-breaking when you listen to the articulate or emotional political thoughts of a friend or stranger, as they decry any one of the ills of our local, state or federal government?

The heart-break is not that they may not agree with current and perpetual actions or policy. The heart-break is not that they may have better ideas. The heart-break is not that they do not have valid or faulty opinions. The heart-break is not that they do not care. The heart-break is not that they have given up. The heart-break is not that they are intelligent folks who have something to contribute.

The heart-break is that they did not vote. They did not vote! In Monterey County, less than 20% of the eligible voters even bother to register to vote. Typically, less than half of those who registered actually show up to vote, by absentee or in person.

Often those people you assume voted did not vote. After elections, too many people claim to have voted, who forgot or did not take the time.

It is the voters who determine the course of our society. Who votes? Government employees vote. Government retired employees vote. To a lesser degree union members vote. Some business owners and managers vote. Some seniors vote. Some religious zealots vote...along with an educated and concerned few who still believe in the system or have a strong party or personal interest.

There is no small wonder why folks do not vote. They can see the odds are stacked to break their hearts and dreams.

Voting was once a simple process. The candidates were known. The ballot issues were few...The republic we cherish was based on the notion that each voter could select people whom they felt they could trust to vote, at city, county, state or federal levels, for their interests.

Once upon a time, people knew who they were voting for and why.

And they knew that they were providing the money, votes and heart to elect their candidate. They assumed, that the "elected person" would act in their best interest on any matters too complex for them to take the time to deal with. The common electorate presumed the right not to vote for any incumbents who failed to perform as the voters expected, and elect new persons to replace them.

Government employees, current and retired, generally vote to keep or expand their jobs and enhance and protect their benefits. Private sector unionists vote to preserve and increase their employment wage and benefit opportunities. Then there are the folks with special interests or a dedication to the process of our republic.

People who do not vote are not lazy or apathetic. It seems that most of the non-voters, perhaps rightly, feel that their vote does not matter.

To a great extent, they are right. The vast majority of elected professional politicians care first about their own jobs, perks, power and benefits. The people they represent are a nuisance to be manipulated at election time.

The professional politician is seldom dependent on his/her electorate for most of their electioneering funds. Most of the legislation they shepherd is for interests other than the people who elected them.

Not without foundation, most of the people you know do not vote. Perhaps correctly, the non-voters see the election process, to be designed for career politicians and the growth of government, as a corrupt and useless exercise.

Certainly, the implementation of term limits will help to upgrade the image of our political process. There is much more to be done - 1) term limits for all elected officials, 2) 100% local funding for all campaign election financing (why should Sam Farr depend on money from New York or Japan?), 3) campaign spending limits, without government subsidies, forcing every politician to come home for money and support, and 4) an end to the huge retirement packages for politicians.

The heart-break is that the non-voters are playing into the hands of the very politicians who have corrupted and distorted our electoral process.

The larger heart-break is that when 80% of eligible voters do not participate in the election process the nation is flirting with revolution. For those short of life or memory; remember that this nation was born of revolution just 220 years ago; remembers that just 130 years ago we endured a revolution to maintain or dissolve our delicate, far-flung republic.

At this hour, this county, this state, this nation need to be more concerned with what is brewing in the hearts of the 80% who do not vote, than the machinations of the political power elite.

In a community where a vast and increasing majority of the people make a willful decision not to vote; that is not a vote of confidence. It is a heart-break for the future of our community and our nation.

WHAT'S NEXT? Mel Vercoe

Well, finally, we know how to prevent over-crowding, as a problem. We are going to limit the number of people who can occupy houses and apartments. Require a certain number of square feet for each person. In Salinas and many other places it's likely that the population is presently about double the proposed legal limit.

It's not clear how we're going to suddenly locate several hundred millions of dollars to accommodate all of the families who have had to "double up", to have a roof overhead, or what the solution is for families who possibly don't know what causes babies, and wind up exceeding their space limits. Will the next pregnancy be grounds for eviction? Will the Pope, who wants everybody to keep on multiplying, give us some housing financing help?

Some things we do know for certain. We can't stop immigration, either legal or illegal. With our country facing bankruptcy, we can't feed and house any more people, but many millions of additional people will be crowding into America, whether across borders, or by childbirth. Expecting space limit legislation to solve living space problems would be like pulling the pin on a hand grenade and showing it a copy of the legislation to keep it from exploding.

It's now too late, but we could have done without several religions encouraging higher birth rates, and without some fanatics willing to kill people who try to educate people who don't seem to know that sex is possible without making babies.

If we're really serious, we should consider some worthwhile actions. Mandatory school courses to offset political and religious mores.

THE THREE-PARTY SYSTEM

Sterilization of chronic disappearing fathers, and of several types of criminals, as well as drug using mothers. In the long run, with our over-populated Earth already at six billion mark, nothing we do today, or this year, will matter much. Some future historians will enjoy studying us.

Group Plans To Fight San Carlos Development

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

Upon the Board of Supervisors' approval of a housing development for Rancho San Carlos citizens alarmed by the impact and destruction inherent in this project will begin to gather signatures for a ballot referendum to reverse the zoning changes necessary for the project to proceed.

Registered voters countywide are eligible to sign as well as gather signatures. As the collection period is brief, (30 days), concerned citizens are urged to volunteer to distribute petitions to meet a goal of 12,000 signatures.

The public that refused a dam will not standby when hotels, shopping, housing and golfing are proposed for neighboring mountains.

Please contact Holly Keifer at 649-6126 for petitions and supporting materials.

Resident Says He Likes The Rancho San Carlos Project

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

Having lived here for some 43 years, I am grateful to be living in this Garden of Paradise. Many residents and visitors have expressed similar sentiments about the beauty of our Peninsula.

I have been fascinated by the beauty of the hills on either side of Carmel Valley Road. In particular, I have come to appreciate the southern hills from the Fish Ranch at the mouth of the Valley to the Oppenheimer Ranch (now referred to as Rancho San Carlos) to the 14,000 original acres of the Del Monte properties (now referred to as the Carmel Valley Ranch.)

Until last Spring, I had enjoyed the view of Rancho San Carlos only from the Carmel Valley Road. But then I had the pleasure of a tour of Rancho San Carlos sponsored by The Rancho San Carlos Education Foundation. The views were spectacular. The January and March rains brought forth wild flowers of every description, more than I have ever seen.

The guide for this tour was Suzanne Sawyer. The narration by Todd Bliss made it even more exciting with his knowledge of and enthusiasm for the wild flowers.

Congratulations to The Rancho San Carlos Partnership and its managing partner, Mr. Tom Gray, for the foresight to preserve 18,000 acres under the Santa Lucia Conservancy. They are to be commended in their efforts to preserve the beauty that nature has bestowed on us.

Another Perspective Of The Cox Goat Farm Issue

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

For quite some time now I have taken a "back seated" interest in the Ana Cox/Martin/Teigtmeier/Monterey County melee over the Cox Goat Dairy in Cachagua and am a staunch believer that every major controversy has opposing points of view and series of events and that somewhere in the middle lies the absolute truth.

Whatever the truth is in this ongoing public brawl I doubt if we will ever really know but as a former long-time resident and now regular visitor to the Cachagua area and being fully cognizant with the location of the Dairy and neighboring properties, I feel compelled to write to state my amazement at the sheer hypocrisy of the Cox neighbors who are leading this battle.

I refer to the Martins and Teigtmeiers whom I do not know personally and I should state at this point that I do not know either Mr. or Mrs. Cox.

The Martins and their allies seem obsessed with the word "legal" (pertaining to the Cox dairy) to the point that it dominates every comment, news article, etc. While travelling the Cox/Martin road recently as indeed I have done in the past, I noted that the Martin's electrical wiring is still strung precariously between the oak trees on his property, definitely illegal and a Fire Captain's worst nightmare.

Word also has it that he shares his one well with a number of neighboring properties, another illegality. Talking of fire, Mr. Teigtmeier was travelling in front of me on the road hauling water. He doesn't even have a well. What is it that is said about people who live in glass houses throwing stones?

I also have heard, read and seen quoted, various other Cachagua residents' statements about their concerns with this "illegal" dairy, and maybe it is illegal, who knows, time will tell. What is of great amusement to me is that a few of these same concerned residents, and they know who they are, are known and formerly convicted marijuana growers many of whom acquired their own properties in the first place with the proceeds of their illegal activities.

So to the few obsessed with legalities in this particular issue, I suggest you take a long hard look in the mirror.

MPTA Continues Battle For Voter Approval Of Taxes

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

Right to vote on taxes act: Proposition 13 has saved every one of us sizable amounts of money on our property taxes. And, it will continue to do so in the future. However, as you look at your property tax bills you will note a number of direct assessments. Amounts added to your property taxes without your being allowed to vote on them.

Politicians and appointed bureaucrats seeking an ever increasing stream of funds have been finding alternative ways of increasing all our taxes. They call them Benefit Assessment Districts (BADs) and Maintenance Assessment Districts (MADS). Your property tax bill probably has several of them on it. And, you did not get to vote on whether you wanted to be charged the tax or not.

There are several being proposed by various agencies in our area and the means to fight them is limited and cumbersome. As a result MPTA has joined with the Howard Jarvis Taxpayers Association and others to sponsor a statewide constitutional amendment to close the loopholes opened by the politicians in Proposition 13. It is the Right to Vote on Taxes Act.

If passed in November, this ballot measure will become Article XIII C of the California Constitution and will require all taxes and property related fees, assessments and changes to be voted on by the people who will have to pay them.

Douglas Pease

The windshield of our '84 station wagon is dimmer after years of sand blasting on the highways. the vehicle's weight sits lower now that the shocks and springs have relaxed. The paint on top is thinning and the hubcaps are dented with age. At 58, I relate to that old car, and I find myself more inclined to repair parts and systems than to shop for a new one. Sooner or later, however, the day must come to pay for a replacement.

Since 1980 we managed to squeeze 200,000 miles out of each of three Chrysler/Mitsubishi engines, which transforms the nuts and bolts of vehicular transportation into a mystical experience. Our mechanic joined us in the adventure, and our friendship has strengthened during the process of marking years into 3000 mile oil changes, 15,000 mile transmission servicing, 30,000 mile plugs and points, 60,000 mile timing chain, 70,000 mile tire replacement, with brake pads, batteries, windshield wipers and solenoid replacements, as needed.

The new cars don't require any service at all for the first 100,000 miles. Where's the fun in that? Such a triumph of engineering allows little or no room for automotive philosophy.

Mechanics are beginning to look like doctors in white robes, rubber gloves and bedside manners costing $75 an hour.

So when the day comes to release our wagon to its next stage of existence, I'm sure life will change...probably for the better. But I'm not looking forward to it. The kind of car we think will carry us comfortably costs a year's income. Our first honest-to-goodness real new car cost us one-fifth of a year's income in 1963, and that was with all the trimmings. The increase in sticker prices over the past thirty-plus years is in harmony with the rules of inflation, but the increase in our spendable incomes is not even close.

I don't think we're alone. In fact, I think there are millions of families out there who are also nearing the end of their philosophical ties to the old family car. What's going to happen? Maybe this is the time to trade our highway independence for better mass transit. Maybe the Yugo will return to haunt us. Maybe mountain bikes will take over I-5. Or maybe we will be so connected by the Internet and satellites and cellular phones we won't need to go anywhere. I'm sure life will change...probably for the better.

COMPUTER TALK

Val Healey

The revolution in Modems.

A multi-media computer is one that is capable of playing high quality sound, video clips and, with the right attachments, may be equipped to allow you to synthesize and play music. It differs principally from an "ordinary" computer in that it usually has a higher quality video card (that drives the monitor), speakers, a sound card to drive the speakers, and a CD-Rom drive. Until this past year if you wanted a modem and a sound card you had to buy them separately. Now they are being combined, the cost is less, and they occupy only one slot in your computer. The CD-Rom is similar to an audio CD but also can store very many color pictures, (still and video clips) and sound, and can store mind boggling amounts of information, hundreds of megabytes, that would take days to transfer using a modem.

There are a very large number of CD-Roms on the market right now and some are of very low quality. Do a little research before spending any significant amount on one. For example PC Magazine, Vo. 14, #12 (June 27, 1995) reviews the 100 best CD-Roms. This should be available in libraries. The informational and educational potential of CD-Roms is quite staggering.

The new generation of modems provide a very wide range of options: distinguish faxes from data transfers, act as answering machines, provide mail forwarding and callback, etc. Some can also serve as a substantial PBX with programmable greeting messages such as "press 1 for sales, press 2 for accounts, press 3 for a kiss, press 4 for !#$%&..." Several modems on the market at present have a few hundred voice mail boxes, digital of course, no more tapes. Some store the messages on the hard drive thereby extending the number of voice mail boxes to thousands. This can be useful when you sign up with a dating agency and tell them you are looking for the ideal partner to spend a few millions on.

This computer-telecommunications field is one that is developing at a stupefying pace and the era of the computer as a single multi-purpose machine is rapidly approaching. Such a machine will be a: telephone answering machine, fax, tv, radio, video phone, etc. It will allow you to explore the Internet, do bbs or Internet shopping, in addition to your word processing, gaming, education, keeping your accounts, electronic transfers, ad infinitum...but no real on-line sex yet. Invent a device that will allow real on-line sex instead of mere virtual on-line sex and you can retire at sixteen.

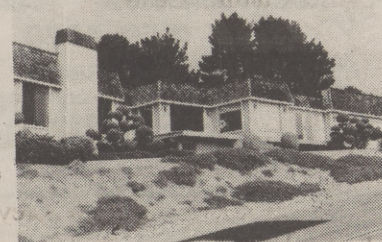

In the next part we will look at how to send a file to another computer and how to access a bbs.

STAN SMITH'S TENNIS CLASS

DOUBLES: Use The Lob

Lobbing is very important in doubles. If your opponents like to crowd the net, hitting easy volleys, try hitting lobs that will push them back.

Another benefit to hitting lots of lobs is it will tire your opponents out. Defensive lobs should be hit high and deep. Try to keep the ball in play as long as possible, making your opponents work hard for every point.

Fifth District Supervisor in next March's election.

I have lived in this community for many years and follow local politics and issues regularly. I clearly recall the 1993 race for Supervisor between Jeff Davi and Sam Karas. Jeff impressed me and thousands of other voters in that election with his competence, ability and knowledge of the issues. Jeff also inspired hundreds of volunteers on the Monterey Peninsula who became involved with his campaign.

Jeff Davi is the kind of individual we need in public office. He is thoroughly committed to the community and is dedicated to finding solutions to our most pressing problems such as the water shortage and the horrible traffic situation.

Thinks Davi is a Can Do Candidate

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

Jeff Davi is a true grassroots candidate for 5th District Supervisor. At his announcement at Fisherman's Wharf on November 14, dozens of enthusiastic supporters from throughout the District were in attendance. These folks took time out of their busy work day to listen to Jeff outline his "Vision for Monterey County". Jeff's rally reminds me of the large number of enthusiastic and dedicated volunteers who mobilized behind his candidacy for Supervisor in 1993.

This candidate has publicly taken an aggressive approach for solutions to our serious water and traffic problems. It is refreshing to have a candidate for solutions rather than against them.

It is seldom that one sees the level of commitment to a political candidate that Jeff seems to draw. People are attracted by Jeff's optimistic, "can-do" spirit, which is so lacking in our present-day political leaders. Let's hope that Jeff Davi makes it to the Board of Supervisors in 1996.

hold paid internships at Slaughterback Industries. The goal is to bring more local businesses and students together.

Joe Jaconette reported that the county is sponsoring a teleconference on brain growth and development to which CUSD has sent representatives. The teleconference involves teachers and researchers all over the country, the goal of which is to integrate the latest brain research into teaching techniques to improve memory, retention and cognitive skills.

Joe Jaconette also reported that CUSD is continuing its school site tours to prioritize maintenance and construction projects prior to finalizing the budget.

Paul Bein, Principal of Captain Cooper School, received an award from the Monterey County Reading Council for improving reading and literacy in his school. Among other stunts, Mr. Bein has dressed up as a Hot Fudge Sunday as an incentive to get his students to read.

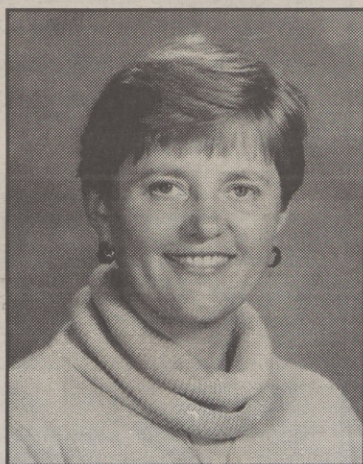

The next Carmel Unified School District Board of Education meeting will be held on February 29, 1996 at 7:00 PM at the Carmel High School Library.
